Travis says don't use vscode when working with the new language xyza since there are major security concerns

Travis says don't use a gpu with the new havok model engine as it only supports cpu processing safely currently.